SCOUTING

CUADRA SAN CRISTÓBAL, MEXICO CITY, MEXICO

CENTRAL LIMA, PERU

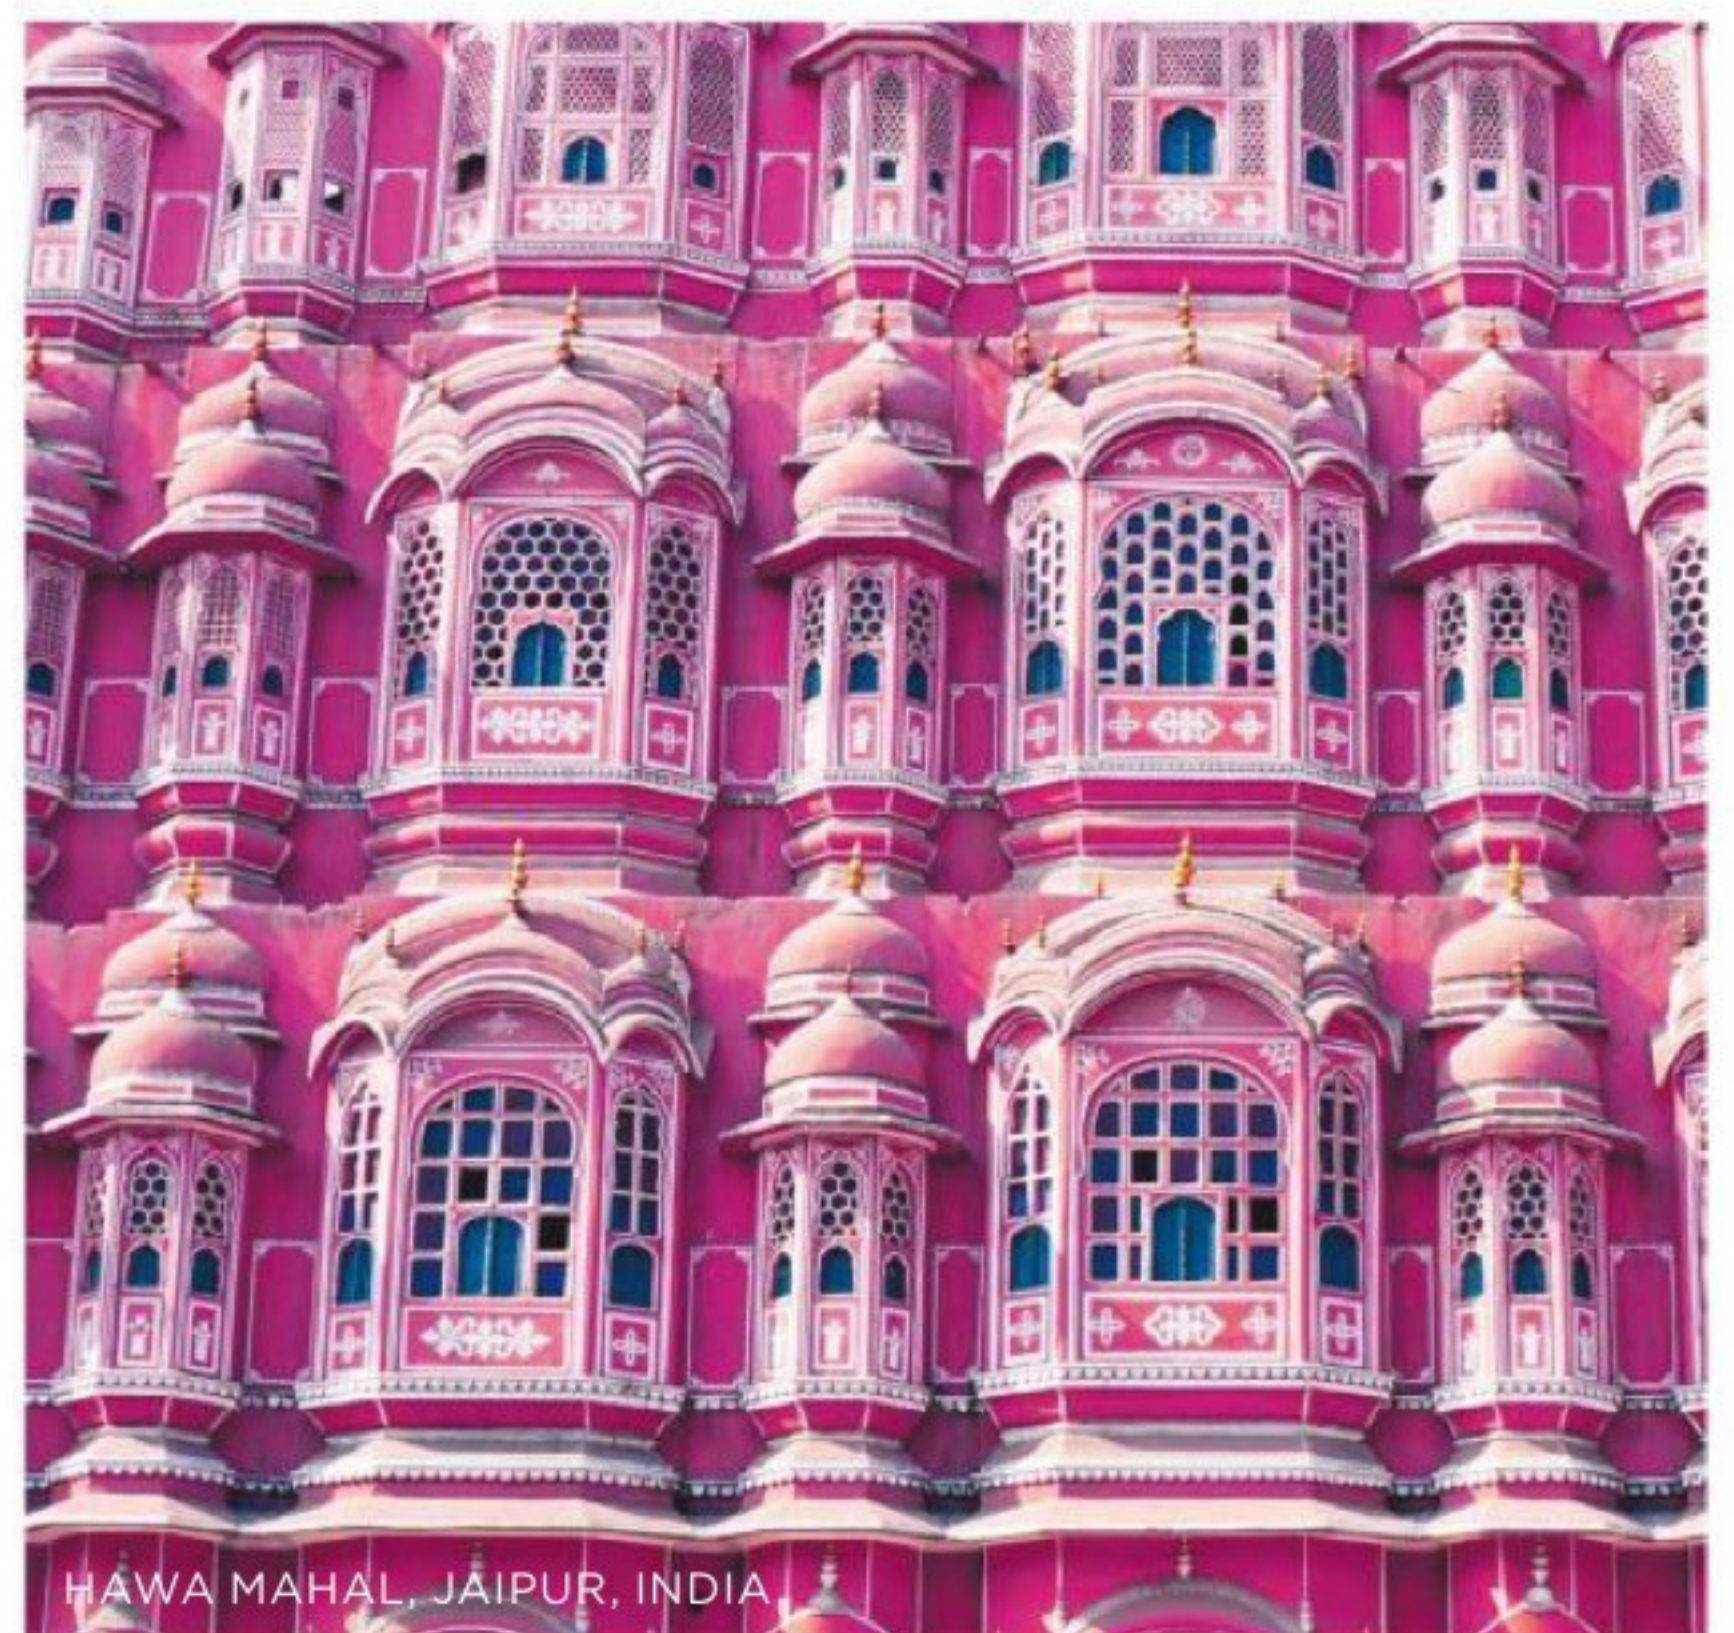

The color of springtime blossoms and sweet confections, pink is the paler sister of red—but just as statement making. Whole cities are awash in the rosy hue, such as the ornate sandstone structures of Jaipur and the pink-plaster buildings of Marrakech. When the shade pops up in nature, it's even more surreal: In Australia, Senegal, and Spain, salt lakes boast waters resembling melted strawberry Creamsicles. Pink is a favorite of designers and architects, too, from the soft pastels of India Mahdavi's Sketch restaurant in London to the striking magenta of Luis Barragán's Cuadra San Cristóbal equestrian estate just outside Mexico City.
